WOMAN'S WORLD.

Margaret Mather's Marriage.

July 30 the Rev. Frank A. Pease, pastor of the Methodist church in this city, married Miss M. Pease and Margaret Mather. The bride and groom were both of the Pease family, and the ceremony was a very simple one. The bride was dressed in a simple, elegant gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large number of guests, and the bride and groom were both very happy.

Some weeks after the marriage Mr. Pease and Mrs. Pease came to the city from Milwaukee, and then, in a conversation, he admitted that Captain Pease, of Milwaukee, was his father and his wife was Margaret Mather. At the time of the marriage no special remark was made, so Mr. Pease says, to keep the marriage a secret, but when he met young Pease on the train the latter asked that it be kept quiet for a time, saying he intended explaining matters to his father soon. He said that his wife was in California, and that he was going to join her there, adding they were enjoying life very much. Pease and Miss Mather were alone at the time of their marriage—Kenoosa Cor. Chicago Herald.

Women and Pottery.

Conspicuous at home and abroad are the pottery known as Rockwood America has achieved its first and only artistic ceramic creation. American ceramic history may be said to date from the Colonial, where the Japanese display suggested to the fertile genius of a woman, Maria Longworth Storer, the artistic possibilities of the clay of her native Missouri valley, and the first Rockwood was modeled. To a woman, too, Miss McLaughlin, the world is indebted for the discovery of underglaze painting, which gave such an impetus to pottery decoration.

Now there are 10,000 women actively engaged on the modeling and decoration of pottery in the United States. The great army of amateur workers decorates cups and saucers and plates for their own homes, reproducing with much skill the more original work of the practical decorators or copying from Rockwood models. A National Ceramic association of these women workers has been founded, of which Miss McLaughlin is president and the late Mrs. Benjamin Harrison was vice president, and it is desired to establish a national school where women may study without coming abroad.—New York Sun.

Marriage and Diplomacy.

The German emperor is determined to have no trifling with his diplomatic corps. The German ambassador at Peking, Herr von Brandt, has just become engaged to a young American lady, to the satisfaction of the friends of both parties.

Not, however, to that of the Emperor William. He sees in the proposed alliance a dangerous situation for the secret affairs of the empire.

"The position of a German diplomatist," he is reported to have written, "is such as to preclude his marrying a woman of another nationality."

Evidently German intrigues in China is something even more intricate and crafty than the world is aware of. Its secrets are such that the agents themselves may only marry German women.

The question is whether this is complimentary to the latter sex. Of course the American young lady is an exceptionally dangerous person, but the emperor does not seem to have considered that the best way to make her marry is to get her safely married.—St. James Gazette.

Women in the Congregational Church.

Women are becoming active in the Congregational church. There are four in New York who preach, and all very acceptably. Two are regularly in charge of churches and are successful. The first, Rev. Annie F. Eastman, has a wide reputation as a speaker, lecturer and preacher, and is pastor at West Union, N. Y.

The second, Rev. Janina Breckenridge, is a graduate of Oberlin College and Theological seminary, thoroughly fitted for her profession, and is the successor of Mrs. Eastman at Brooklyn. Mrs. H. E. Gurney, now supplying temporarily in Philadelphia, and Mrs. Ethan Curtis preach occasionally, when called upon for such service.

At the request of the church officials Mrs. Curtis recently supplied the pulpit of Dr. Packard, New York City, in the absence of the pastor. All are described as women of refinement and culture and able to interest and instruct congregations. Mrs. Clara L. Buell has accepted a call to Gaylord, Mich. The first church in Everett, Mass., has elected six deaconesses.—Boston Woman's Journal.

Aristocratic Punks.

Mr. Beecher used to amuse himself at times estimating the cost of each individual strawberry raised on his fancy farm, and Mrs. Jessie Bartlett Davis, the celebrated horticulturist, did find similar amusement in computing the cost of the eggs her hens lay. No domestic fowl were ever more luxuriously housed than are the prima donna's chickens. They know the beneficence of hot and cold baths, electric light, steam heat, hardwood floors and all other up to date appliances of civilization. The henhouse itself is a two-story structure, its walls ornamented with pictures of fighting cocks and chickens with a pedigree, and even the roosting rods are ornamental. The singer's farm, where this interesting sight is to be seen, is a few miles out Chicago.—Harper's Weekly.

Paying an Election Bet.

Three well known young ladies residing in that part of the Falls known as Sunnyside paid off election bets Wednesday evening by appearing upon Broadway clothed in man's apparel. A civilian suit, a bicycle suit and a girl's morning suit, false beards and pins have formed a part of the disguise. Some little boys playing under an electric light at the corner of Pine street and Broadway first spotted the maidens, and it would be hard to tell which were frightened the most, the boys or the girls. The girls sought refuge in a neighboring house.—Springfield (Mass.) Union.

MAKING CANDY AT HOME.

It is a Delightful Amusement for a Few Hours Before Bedtime.

Try a candy party and see if you do not enjoy yourself more than you have ever done before at such an affair. Why? Because at your novel candy party you are going to make some very nice candies and conduct the party on regular organized principles that will insure its success.

The materials required for the candy party are ten pounds of confectioner's sugar—obtainable at any grocery—five strictly fresh eggs, a cake of chocolate, half a pound of dates, a small quantity of dedicated coconut, some vanilla flavoring and a few drops of peppermint or wintergreen.

You have now on hand the ingredients for fifteen or more pounds of candy—much more than you care to make, no doubt—no you may, if you please, get only half the quantity of sugar. But it is more satisfactory to work with the larger quantity.

Let the mistress of ceremonies break the five eggs into a big earthen bowl, and then, without beating the eggs add to them an equal quantity of water. Now begin to stir in the sugar. It should be added a cupful at a time until the candy mixture is so stiff that the arm of the stirrer refuses to perform its task.

This is the critical part of French candy making. It should be so stiff that it will stand alone, like breaded velvet.

Now add a little vanilla flavoring to the compound, and let the amount of vanilla be determined upon by the compound you have designated at the beginning of the evening to eat as "tasters."

All hands now fall to work upon the mixture in the bowl. It must be quickly and deftly molded into chocolate drops, each one of which is quickly stirred in the new chocolate by the couple presiding over the chocolate pan.

When enough chocolate drops have been made and set away upon glassed paper to cool a cupful of the mixture is taken out and mixed with the desiccated coconut, and then rolled into balls by the couple appointed to look after the interests of the coconut candy. Little balls of the candy are pressed into the stoneware dishes to make the "cream" dates of the candy store, and the rest is rolled into balls by the couple appointed to look after the interests of the coconut candy.

Now add a little vanilla flavoring to the compound, and let the amount of vanilla be determined upon by the compound you have designated at the beginning of the evening to eat as "tasters."

"All the king's horses and all the king's men, couldn't put Humpty Dumpty up again!"

No use for horses or men either. When you put Eggs into one of these Baskets they are all right.

THE LATEST OUT. Every Farmer Should HAVE ONE. No More Broken Eggs.

The Farmers' Egg Basket is not a cheap splint, but is made of veneer, firmly bound with bands, has a board bottom and strong handles. The sides and ends are colored. It is made in a very substantial manner and will last for years. The fillers are equally well made of straw board and heavy paper, securely attached. The basket holds, when fillers are in position, TEN DOZEN EGGS. When empty, the fillers fold up into very small space, leaving the greater portion of the basket available for carrying merchandise.

It is an article of real convenience and utility and so recognized by farmers everywhere. Its merits, and the advantages to be derived from its use are apparent. All you need to do is to try one and you will not be without one in your household.

HOW TO GET ONE? The Breckenridge News has secured control of the sale of these Baskets in Breckenridge, Meade and Hancock counties, and will sell them to its subscribers at prime cost in connection with the paper. The Baskets retail at 50 cents each. We will furnish a basket and the paper one year for $1.25. The subscribers will also have a chance in our premium list, which will practically make the basket cost you nothing. If you are already a subscriber and paid in advance, secure a new name and $1.25 and we will send you a basket free.

This is one of the most desirable premiums for the farmer ever offered by any newspaper, and it will more than pay for itself in six months in the item of broken eggs.

Billy Winchester, the brakeman, who got his hand so severely crushed in this city some months ago, has been paid $1,200 by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, an organization of which he was a member in good standing. He has many friends here, who are glad to hear that he has thus in part been remunerated for the loss of his hand.

Jesse Froman and John Lyons, both of Tobsport, Ind., but formerly from this side, had an altercation on West street early Monday morning. The fight was short but arduous to the point, blood flowing freely from either belligerent. Froman was struck in the head with a rock, while Lyons was hit on the chest severely. Both men were seriously injured. They were arrested and fined $5 each and costs.

Samuel Crawford died at Indianapolis, Ind., March 12th, of general debility, and was brought to this city for burial. The remains were accompanied by his son and daughter, Mr. Davis and Mrs. Mary Morris. He was buried in the cemetery on the "Short Line" about five miles from this city. Mr. Crawford was an old citizen of Breckenridge county having lived at Webster and other places for many years.

Messes G. W. Mills, John A. Vetter and F. W. Hudson, three prominent gentlemen from Louisville, came down Friday for the purpose of examining the road and mines that lie back from the railroad in Hancock county between here and Havesville. They returned the service of Prof. Thos. Wroe as guide, and after examination they pronounced them good mines. The chances are that there will be a branch road built from the Texas and that in the near future these mines will be in operation.

Cloverport at the World's Fair.

Prof Brown sent four splendid pieces of art to Chicago Monday. They were drawings executed by students of the Cloverport High school, and they will go on exhibition in the educational department of the Kentucky display.

The first "Temple of our Liberties," by Miss Forrest Moorman, aged thirteen years, represented the notion of the people, the Constitution, the law, the States and the Legislative, Judicial and Executive departments; the second was a diagram and proof that "The square described on the hypotenuse of a right angled triangle is equal to the sum of the squares of the other two sides," by Lorenzo Camp, aged fourteen, and Forest Lightfoot, aged sixteen; the third was a drawing of the musculo and muscular system by Miss Laura Yeager, aged eighteen; fourth was a map of Kentucky, by Miss Koss A. Ryan, aged thirteen.

All the drawings were done in colors, and they are truly beautiful, both in tint and in exact correctness in position and direction of angles. They speak well for the young artists, and there will not be the least of the millions of articles that will attract attention at the great World's Fair.

Mother's Recommendation.

We are acquainted with many mothers in Centerville who would not be without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house for a good many times its cost, and are recommending it every day. From personal experience we can say that it has broken up bad colds for our children. —Centerville, South Dakota, Citizen. 50-cent bottles for sale by A. R. Fisher, druggist.

B. Randall Moreman.

Infant son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Moreman, departed this life March 13, 1893, at one year and ten days.

Little Randall's stay on earth was quite brief, yet long enough to impress himself on many hearts so indelibly that he will live in their memories forever. We sometimes feel,

"There is no death, he's only gone where he is waiting for the glad new song."

"And the angel said,"
